

Environmental Crimes such as poaching, illegal fishing, illegal logging and destruction of habitat are of major concern in countries where there is a lack of transparency and governance.

Grant and Gutsell have many years of experience in dealing with some of the major drivers of such crimes. By targetting these drivers and introducing controls such as those to prevent money laundering and restricting the money flows thus making the crimes less profitable, we can make a real difference to the overall enforcement effort.

We have also advised on the introduction of effective disruption strategies.

According to Interpol, wildlife crime is currently estimated at $20billion annually and is a major threat to both the diversity of the natural environment but also to the economy of countries relying on eco tourism

Here are some links to organisations engaged in the fight against Wildlife Trafficking.

Interpol

<https://www.interpol.int/en/Crimes/Environmental-crime/Wildlife-crime>

Wildlife Justice Organisation

https://wildlifejustice.org/investigations/?gclid=EAlaIqobChMIpoartoPi5QIVxuFRCh0VFACQE AAYASAAEgJ2rfD_BwE

World Wildlife Organisation

<https://www.worldwildlife.org/threats/illegal-wildlife-trade>

IUCN

<https://www.iucn.org/regions/europe/our-work/wildlife-trafficking>

United for Wildlife

http://www.unitedforwildlife.org/?gclid=EAlaIqobChMIIna-5_oTi5QIVyrHtCh2W1wwgEAAYASA AEgKLZvD_BwE#!/home

Please notify us of any broken links by emailing to brokenlinks@grantandgutsell.co.uk